Fueling the Fight Against Hunger

Using our experience in the air to help those on the ground.

Expertise Three Decades in the Making

For more than 30 years, our parent company, AMI has been providing cost-effective meals to many of the world's largest airlines. Across the globe, we have successfully delivered the results our customers demand - at a cost that fits their bottom line.

Setting a New Course

Under the umbrella of AMI, ARI is offering our expertise to aid charitable organizations and government agencies in their fight against hunger. Despite shortages caused by the pandemic, our buying power and reliable supply chain allow us to provide cost-effective meals, grocery staples and fully packed pantry boxes.

Helping Serve Those in Need

ARI has partnered with large and small organizations - from producing more than half a million pantry boxes in partnership with the Salvation Army, to delivering frozen entrees and shelf-stable meal boxes to seniors and Indian reservations.

"...while food banks and other organizations were scrambling to find food, the AMI partnership was like a gift from the sky. “Even FEMA was saying, ‘How is that possible?’ It really was an amazing success story to find AMI.”

-Chris Farrand, the EDS director for the Massachusetts Division
If you’re interested in learning how ARI can help your organization, please contact George Horvat (214)-206-5708.

www.arirelief.com